

Moomba Beach was the choice for many Arubans for Easter Brunch

The Moomba Beach Bar and Restaurant was busy until late in the afternoon with islanders that chose to celebrate later in the day to enjoy a special Easter brunch on the beach after morning services. The pleasure of digging one's toes in the sand while digging into fresh sushi, (which appears to be an essential item on Easter brunch menus everywhere these days,) and other gourmet delicacies is what many consider the ideal way to celebrate the holiday.

It certainly was a lovely family day for Audrey Croes-Lacle and the Maggy's clan, and many other well-known island personalities. They even brought their own Easter Eggs filled with –what else?– little sample bottles of perfume! Mingling with the many tourists that also decided to make the most of Aruba's island environment; they lingered over sparkling Mimosas and tempting desserts.

Newlyweds Amy and Eric Laskowski of Patchogue, Long Island enjoyed their first Easter together as man and wife, and after a look at the Palm Beach area during an excursion that took them away from their Oranjestad resort, they chose to spend it with brunch on the magnificent Palm Beach with the beautiful view. They expressed that it was an excellent choice.

Easter Sunday was a busy day for all the restaurants and resorts, as many, like the Moomba Beach Bar and Restaurant featured music, fun, and fine food to make it an extra special day!
